

GRAND JURY PROBE OF DYNAMITE PLOTS

FEDERAL AUTHORITIES TAKE ACTION AT ONCE TO INVESTIGATE ALLEGED NATION WIDE CONSPIRACY.

REASONS FOR ACTION

Presence of McManis and McManis Brothers in City and Amalgamation of Evidence, Given as Important.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 6.—The grand jury met today for a federal grand jury investigation in Los Angeles of an alleged nation wide dynamite conspiracy.

The city, wrecked and torn by the newly concluded murder trial of James R. McManis and the events leading up to it, would be glad to let go of the whole affair, prominent citizens de-

McManis, which lead their chief of counsel to seek eagerly for terms upon which his clients might plead guilty.

Probable Evidence. McManis's reminiscences are already given out by him, include both the transportation of dynamite from state to state and the conspiracy to blow up the various structural iron edifices in the country. He says he did many jobs of this sort and enumerated them.

What the McManis will tell if they appear is not so well known, it is known that the present status of the McManis has arisen as an obstacle to their appearance before the grand jury.

The evidence of James R., a confessed murderer, it is said, is not admissible in a court of law and there is some doubt as to that of John J. McManis. The rules of grand jury procedure, however, are not the same as those which govern the taking of evidence in court.

TO GIVE FAREWELL SERMON ON SUNDAY

Rev. F. C. Shaffer, Pastor of Clinton Congregational Church to Preach Last Sermon.

There will be a farewell reception for Rev. and Mrs. Shaffer Thursday evening of this week at the home of Mrs. J. L. Pangborn and daughter, Mrs. Merritt Jay Stephen.

STATE GAME LAWS NOT FOR INDIANS

Federal Judge Decides That Red Men May Hunt Without Restrictions On Own Reservation.

Madison, Dec. 6.—In ordering the discharge of William Rice and Edward Bonerich, Indians, federal Judge A. L. Stephens established the rule that Indians may hunt on their own reservations in or out of season without interference by state game wardens. Deputy game warden arrested the men on a reservation in Ashland county charging them with violation of state game laws and the Indians took out a writ of habeas corpus.

TO PROCEED WITH TRIAL OF PACKERS

There Will Be No Delay In Ending This Long Drawn Out Trial.

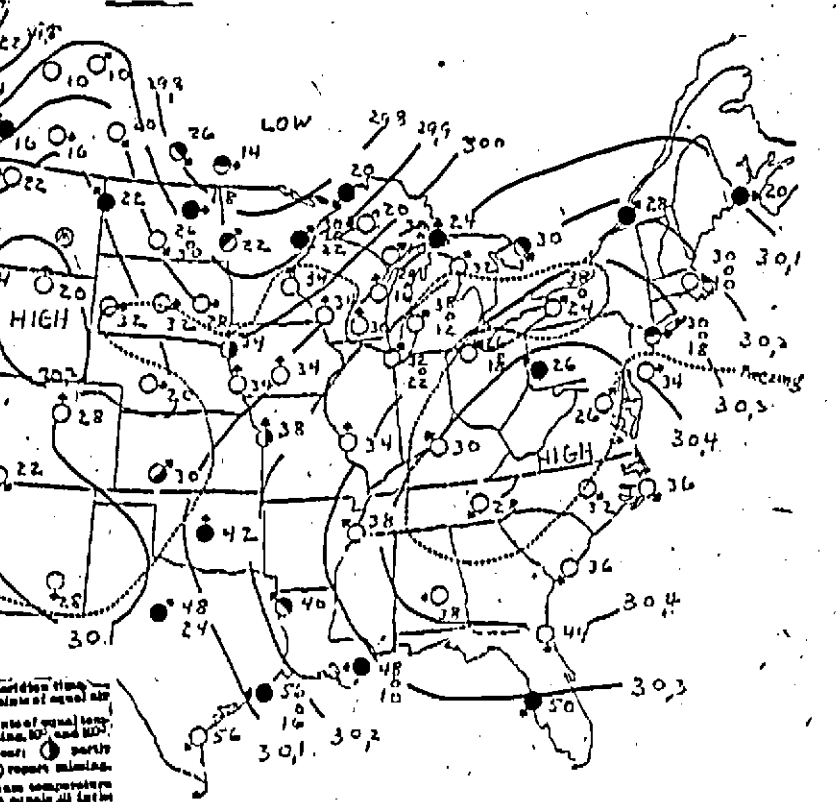

Chicago, Dec. 6.—No apparent further effort to delay the trial in the United States district court was made by counsel for the packers when the case was called before Judge Carpenter today. Attorney John Miller asked that a plea of not guilty be entered for each of the packers. All of the defendants were in court. Work of securing a jury was then begun.

ASQUITH PLEDGES EVERY EFFORT TO IRISH HOME RULE

British Premier Announced in Speech to Commons That Government Would Aid Bill in Every Way.

London, Eng., Dec. 6.—Premier Asquith announced in the House of Commons this afternoon that the government would use all the constitutional means at its disposal to pass a home rule bill for Ireland during the life time of the present parliament.

He declared this is his reply to a question from William O'Brien, member from Cork, who expressed concern at a recent report that Mr. Asquith was trying to get the House of Lords to throw out the home rule bill when it reaches the upper house.

GOVERNORS TO HAVE A STRENUOUS DAY

Elaborate Program Arranged For Their Entertainment—Will Be Guests of State Delegates.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 6.—An exceedingly busy day is in prospect for the Western States' governors who are due to arrive in the capital tomorrow in the course of their "get-together" tour of the Eastern cities. A reception committee will greet the executives upon their arrival. The initial feature of the program calls for their attendance at the forenoon session of the National Rivers and Harbors Congress. At luncheon they will be the guests of the Washington Chamber of Commerce and will be given an automobile jaunt about the city. In the evening they are to be entertained at dinner at the White House and immediately after taking leave of the President and Mrs. Taft the governors will depart for Baltimore.

MOTHER-IN-LAW HAS RIGHT TO INTERFERE

Kansas City State Appeals Decides She Can Have Part In Affairs of Married Children.

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 6.—A mother-in-law's right of interference into the affairs of her married children was sanctioned judiciously when the Kansas City court of appeals today reversed the decision of a lower court awarding Mrs. Mildred Frank of West Missouri, $2,600 in her suit against her mother-in-law for the alienation of the affections of the younger Mrs. Frank's husband, Harry.

Topeka, Kan., Dec. 6.—The annual report of Secretary of Agriculture G. B. Coburn, shows the total value of agricultural products and live stock of Kansas for this year to be $234,549,974. This is a decrease of about five million dollars from last year, the banner year of the state.

LOS ANGELES DEALS BLOW TO SOCIALISM

"GOOD GOVERNMENT" FORCES RALLY TO RE-ELECT MAYOR ALEXANDER BY AN OVERWHELMING MAJORITY.

WOMEN AID IN VICTORY

Women Cast First Ballots to Down Socialist Candidate—Prohibition Cause Wins.

Los Angeles, Dec. 6.—George Alexander good government candidate for mayor who defeated Job Harriman socialist yesterday in the city election here, was leading nearly 17,000 votes early today. Votes in 174 of the 317 precincts had been counted. Alexander's vote in those precincts totaled 40,371 and Harriman's 23,833.

Los Angeles, Dec. 6.—Socialism as advocated by Job Harriman and Alexander Irvine went down to defeat in Los Angeles yesterday by an overwhelming majority.

Carried Entire City. Mayor George Alexander leading the good government movement was re-elected to office by a majority that will, from recent reports, reach 40,000 over Harriman, the socialist candidate.

Indications early today are that the Alexander good government ticket has been carried to victory throughout the entire city. Harriman made a surprisingly poor run in his own precinct where he lost by a vote of 10,537 to 192.

"It was the vote of the women that returned Alexander to office" said the chairman of the Woman's League, Secretary of State John A. Frear, of the Woman's League. "Out of the registration of approximately 7,000 women 95 per cent. voted, and of those 75 per cent. voted for Alexander."

Incomplete returns from three hundred precincts showing clearly that the prohibition cause was lost.

FIVE WERE KILLED AND SCORE INJURED IN SERIOUS WRECK

Three Trains on Pennsylvania Road in Terrible Crash Near Pittsburgh Early Today.

Pittsburgh, Dec. 6.—Five were killed and a score injured, a number of them seriously, before eight o'clock this morning in a wreck of two freight and an express train on the Pennsylvania road at Devil's Bend, one mile east of Manor.

The dead were Engineer Frank Baily of the express train, and three unidentified men in the express car.

Freightman John Myers was perhaps fatally injured and several other members of the three crews were seriously hurt. Many others sustained bruises.

Twenty-six out of twenty-seven valuable horses which were being carried in one of the express cars, were killed. The debris was scattered over four miles of track and traffic was tied up for hours.

FREAR DENOUNCES LAND DRAWING AS GAMBLE AND FRAUD

Wisconsin Secretary of State Attacks Government Methods of Distributing Land in Speech at Irrigation Congress.

Chicago, Dec. 6.—Calling government land drawings a species of gambling which brings no good to the farmer on the farm, Secretary of State John A. Frear, of Wisconsin, a member of the Wisconsin state board of irrigation, turned the state board of irrigation prize offering prizes to lucky winners of western land. Mr. Frear spoke at the National Irrigation Congress here this morning. He said:

Government Runs Lottery. "The cities will continue to grow in population, outstripping the agricultural districts to the deep concern of statesmen and economists, but we will not stem the current by crying 'back to the farm' when our government and other governments turn the spin of the wheel of reservation prizes or irrigation lotteries, or flood our states with glittering inducements in an effort to persuade our own people to give up their present homes for an uncertainty."

Secretary Frear declared that shrewd experts are given license to prey upon the credulity of human nature by all kinds of questionable ventures, from the giving away of sand lots in Michigan to distant farm land—homes, receiving a handsome profit—to the promoter in every instance.

Fosters Gambling Spirit. "To be more specific," he continued, "our national government opens up a reservation, offering prizes to the lucky winners and thousands of people plunge into the lottery, each expending many dollars of hard-earned money in striving to grasp a handful of desirable claims—not for the purpose of becoming bona fide settlers but to win a prize in the gamble. It is a matter of common knowledge that the waste of money, energy and the disappointment that once fall to the lot of unlucky investors in the Louisiana lottery is regularly duplicated at public land drawings."

Never Reap Returns. "Then there is the national irrigation project advertised throughout the country by a show share in the future of golden corn, with the result that hundreds of people are rushed into the new section month and sometimes years before water can be furnished for growing the promised crops. Untrained thousands of clerks and laborers in our cities are persuaded to invest in fruit, pecan or kindred propositions, thousands of miles distant, without examination, whereas a very slight preliminary reap the fabulous returns promised by gaudily illustrated, misleading literature, and many investors never get their money back."

Exodus to Canada. "Our Canadian neighbors, at an annual expense of several hundred thousand dollars spent in missionary work, will secure from the states next year, according to their own estimates, nearly a carrying over the border the one thousand dollars, on an average, in money or property. This exodus means economic loss to the states of nearly a quarter of a billion dollars annually, aside from the intangible value attached to every industrial sector of the community."

Secretary Frear suggested as one means to better conditions government or state licensing of reputable land agencies, as well as a certain degree of censorship by the government over glaring frauds in mail matter exploiting "back to the land" schemes.

CHALLENGE TO OLIN IS MADE BY KENNEY

Madison, Wis., Dec. 6.—A challenge for an open debate on the Wisconsin commission government plan was issued this morning by Attorney John T. Kenney to Attorney John M. Olin.

Both are prominent Madison professional men. Mr. Kenney is a former member of the Ohio legislature. The deal follows upon a recent debate at a social center meeting and later a worldly newspaper controversy. Attorney Kenney opposes the Wisconsin plan as inadequate in many ways, particularly in its lack of provision, he alleges for application of the merit plan appointment. Attorney Olin holds equally pronounced views in favor of the law.

Lorimer senatorial inquiry resumed. Monetary commission resumed executive session. Antitrust legislation discussed at senate committee hearing.

Hague met at noon. Miscellaneous bills considered under call of committee. John D. Rockefeller and Roy D. Gates invited to appear Monday before steel committee. Government estimates attack on misleading by appropriation committee chairman.

Diplomatic recalls urged by Representative Harter, socialist, on account of Russian passport trouble. World's sugar prices probed by sugar inquiry committee. Tariff plans discussed by democrats on ways and means committee. Congress probably will not act on Persian incident.

REFUSE TO EMPLOY MORE STRINGENT TEST

Request Made by Eastern Tea Importers for Close Inspection For Artificial Coloring Denied.

Washington, Dec. 6.—The request of eastern tea importers that the treasury department adopt a more stringent test of tea to detect artificial coloring, was denied by the secretary of the treasury today. The present method of analysis adopted in 1908 and uniform throughout the United States, will not be altered. The appeal will probably be taken to the customs court.

WISCONSIN STANDS FOR SPORTSMANSHIP

Prof. J. F. A. Pyre, Former Football Star, Discusses Wisconsin-Minnesota Controversy in Alumni Magazine.

Madison, Wis., Dec. 6.—That University of Minnesota have expressed no remorse at having violated a regulation of the conference by playing an ineligible player in numerous contests, that it seems never to have entered their heads that this had any bearing upon "sportsmanship," and that they have devoted their energies exclusively to the task of transferring the benches to Wisconsin by forceful and random endeavors to furnish every Wisconsin player, is declared by Prof. J. F. A. Pyre, of the University of Wisconsin, and a former football star, to be the phase of the controversy which indicates unsoundness and which is most deplorable, in discussing the recent Wisconsin-Minnesota controversy over the eligibility of Captain Pickering of Minnesota.

Prof. Pyre expresses his views in the current number of the Wisconsin Alumni Magazine.

"There is nothing unique in Minnesota's misfortune. Granted a moment of carelessness, it might come to any institution. It would not have come to Minnesota in the present case had due thoroughness been exercised in the first instance. But this again is not the point."

"The indignant attitude which Minnesota instinctively assumed in this matter, and which instinctively caught the sympathy of some portion of the sporting public can only be justified on one supposition. It can only be justified on the supposition that there exists a vague and unformulated treaty as to these matters which Wisconsin has formulated, and implies a 'don't-tell-on-us' and 'don't-tell-on-you' understanding. This selfish and random recrimination implies that we all know or we are being guilty, but in being caught; that the only safety lies in placing the ban on these dangerous weapons; that an easy toleration of each other's peccadilloes is a practical working basis."

"We, for Wisconsin emphatically deny the existence of any such secret code, of any such working basis. Such a conception may be good enough for college spirit. It is totally false to the spirit of the conference and is a conception of sportsmanship and fair dealing which Wisconsin fully repudiates."

"So far as Wisconsin is concerned we assume that those who subscribe to the conference regulations do so because they believe they are good and with the intention of enforcing them. Wisconsin does enforce them and intends to do so to the limit of her power as long as she plays under them. That is where Wisconsin stands and that is her idea of good sportsmanship. Any student and any alumni who cannot make connection with this idea may have his own conception of it, but he is outside the procession; he is not in touch with his Alma Mater; he is not, in the right sense of the words, a Wisconsin man."

REGENT ABDICATES PLACE AS GUARDIAN

CHI-CHUN WHO HAS BEEN REAL RULER OF CHINA STEPS DOWN AND OUT.

HIS HOLD WEAKENING

Had Tried to Please Manchus and Progressives Without Success—Two Manchus Take Charge.

Peking, China, Dec. 6.—Chi-Chun, the regent and father, with the powers of an emperor, abdicated today his place as guardian of the throne, which is taken jointly by Shih Hsu, a Manchur, and former president of the national assembly, and Shu Shi Chaud, vice president of the privy council.

Chi-Chun has been the chief official in China since the death of the emperor Kang Yu and the empress dowager in 1908. From the black days that followed the death of these rulers, he emerged as the real ruler of China.

At no time was Chi-Chun's regency a smooth one. He tried to hold to a middle ground which pleased neither the Manchur reactionaries nor the active progressives.

He handled the present crisis with perhaps something less than his old time vigor and recent reports have been circulated that his mind was weakening.

Wu Hsing Sang, the former minister at Washington, who is now one of the revolutionary leaders in Shanghai, issued an appeal to Chi-Chun for favor as urging him to abdicate in favor of the republic.

It was reported later from Peking that Chi-Chun was willing to accept a pension and return to Peking, if his personal safety was assured.

French To Peking. Hong Kong, China, Dec. 6.—A detachment of Chinese troops consisting of 200 men of the Conchun, infantry and battery of four guns arrived here today and has since sailed for Peking.

St. Petersburg, Russia, Dec. 6.—Commenting on the delegation of Mongolian Independents at Urga Mongolia, the Novoe Vremya, which is used frequently to give a forecast of the Russian government's intention says that Russia should accept the Mongolian fact and recognize Mongolia as an independent state. In this connection the newspaper emphasizes the Dalai Lama's friendship for Russia.

ORGANIZE TO BREAK TREATY WITH RUSSIA

Nation-wide Agitation Planned For Abrogation Treaty of 1832.

Treatment of Jews Cause. New York, Dec. 6.—United States senators and representatives, diplomats, educators and prominent men in affairs came to New York today to assist in the formulation of plans for a nation-wide agitation for the abrogation of the treaty of 1832 with Russia because of that country's refusal to honor without discrimination the passports issued by the United States. The Russian authorities have persistently refused to honor passports issued to Jews, a consequence of this attitude on the part of the czar's government many Jewish citizens of the United States among them men of world-wide prominence as scholars, philanthropists and men of affairs, have been denied the privilege of visiting Russia.

Beginning with a meeting in Carnegie hall tonight, planned by Andrew D. White, former ambassador of the United States to Russia, a series of great mass-meetings are to be held in every large city of the country to protest against the attitude of the Russian government on the passport question. Among the prominent men who have given their support to the movement are Andrew Carnegie, Vice-President Sherman, Governor Woodrow Wilson, William H. Hurst, Senator Patterson of Pennsylvania, Senator O'Gorman of New York, Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst and Bishop David H. Greer.

ENGLAND IN THROES OF INTERNAL STRIFE

That England is suffering a widespread and serious business depression, that property values are falling rapidly, and that radical legislation and social unrest is ruining the credit and business prosperity of the country is the opinion of Joseph Blaisdell, a former Janesville man, but for the last sixteen years a resident of Liverpool, who has been visiting his brother who passed away Sunday morning.

Mr. Blaisdell states that there are from seven to eight thousand vacant houses in Liverpool; rents are going down steadily, and he wouldn't take an investment there at any price. He attributes the depression, which exists throughout the island in part to the policies and legislation of the present Liberal administration. Contributing causes are the prevailing general discontent which is manifesting itself in various ways; in great strikes and riots, as recently took place in the rapid growth of the ultra radical parties, such as the Socialist and Labor parties, and the "back to the land" movement. The number of unemployed continues to grow and it seems impossible to make headway in finding them work. Taxed on uncertainty during the next thirty days to protest against Russian discrimination regarding passports held by citizens of the United States, on account of their religious belief.

JUST A WEE BIT STRONGER ON THE EXERCISE BEN!

BY HERRMANN

UNITED DOCTORS
OPEN TOMORROWCOMMENCE RECEIVING PATIENTS
ON FOURTH FLOOR HAYES
BUILDING TOMORROW.

OFFER A FEW FREE CURES

INTERESTING FACTS ABOUT WON-DERFUL CURES MADE BY THESE SPECIALISTS IN OTHER CITIES.

Tomorrow, Thursday morning, at nine o'clock is the time for the opening of the United Doctors' new Janesville Institute, which is located on the fourth floor of the Hayes building, corner Milwaukee and Main streets, and this will no doubt be a very busy day for those specialists.

News of the wonderful cures being made by this new system of medicine in our neighboring states of Illinois, and Minnesota, and in the Racine and Eau Claire Institutes in this state has reached Janesville and many sick people have been awaiting this wonderful opportunity of being cured by the United Doctors.

In cities where the United Doctors have older established institutes the great work that is being done by these medical specialists in the way of curing old chronic cases that are not even helped by ordinary methods of treatment is well known, and these older institutes are always crowded with patients, many coming hundreds of miles to be cured. The Racine and Eau Claire, Wis. Institutes of the United Doctors enjoys possibly the largest practices in Wisconsin.

In Janesville, of course, their work is not as well known except to some who have friends in other cities who have seen the cures made, or to readers of Illinois, Minnesota or Southern Wisconsin papers; or to progressive physicians who have read accounts of their work in daily papers or medical journals. To those who have followed the career of the United Doctors it is evident that a new era is dawning in medicine and that the day is not far distant when allopaths, eclectics and homeopaths of the old schools must drop their prejudices and work more for the good of humanity and less for the glory of their particular school of medicine. The day is not far distant when medical colleges will be founded to teach this new United system to practicing physicians—teach them to see the science of medicine from all angles and not from the narrow view point of an allopath, a homeopath or an eclectic.

The generous free offer of the United Doctors of free treatment, free examination until cured, except for bare cost of medicines, which is extended to all patients accepted for treatment before December 20th, will bring them a large number of patients in a short time and soon their work will be as well and favorably known here as it is in cities where they have older established institutes.

It is an invariable rule of the United Doctors to accept only curable cases for treatment. True, there are many cases that are incurable by the old methods which can be quickly cured by the United system of treatment and the United Doctors solicit the difficult and supposedly incurable cases. Those which are beyond hope, which cannot be cured even by this new system of medicine, will not be accepted for treatment at any price. The United Doctors want a clear record of all cases cured and no failures.

The United Doctors treat all curable cases of chronic diseases including diseases of the nerves, blood, skin, heart, liver, stomach, kidneys, rheumatism, paralysis, neuritis, loss of nerve force, constipation, colitis, catarrh, epilepsy, indigestion, dyspepsia, weak back, blinding, dropsy, blood poison, eczema, scrofula and diseases of women and diseases of men.

Any sick person is safe in going to the United Doctors. Their examination and consultation is free. Only curable cases are accepted for treatment, and for that reason every case placed in their care is practically assured of a cure.

As stated above, the Janesville Institute of the United Doctors, in the Hayes building, corner of Milwaukee and Main streets, will be open to receive patients tomorrow morning at nine o'clock. The grand free offer is only good until December 20th.

Senator Pomeroy's Birthday.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 6.—Atlee Pomeroy, the first democrat to represent Ohio in the United States senate since the days of Calvin S. Trice, celebrated today the first birthday anniversary that he has observed in Washington. Senator Pomeroy was born in Ohio forty-eight years ago and received his education at Princeton and the Cincinnati law school. Prior to his election to the senate he had never held any high public office, though he had been prominent in democratic politics in Ohio for many years.

MAROONS WINNERS
OVER THE BROWNSTeams at Lower End of Percent
Column Pitted Against Each Other Last Night.

Teams ranking fifth and sixth in the bowling league, the Browns and Maroons, respectively, met in an interesting and closely contested series of three games last evening at Hockk's alley. The Maroons who are at the very lower end of the percent column proved to be in superior form last night and rolled victoriously in two out of the three games. G. Bauman of the Browns was credited with the highest score last night which was 177 pins and was a material aid in preventing the Maroons taking three straight games. The score follows:

BROWNS	Maroons
Walcott, Capt.	151
Floss	141
G. Bauman	108
Philips	106
Myhr	140
Total	646

MAROONS	Browns
Kneek, Capt.	163
J. Bauman	112
Ehr	99
Campbell	132
Hockett	173
Total	679

THEATER

SIC. FRANCESCO CREATORE.

The music lovers of Janesville and vicinity will have an opportunity of enjoying two delightful band concerts by Creatore and his Banda Verdi at Myers Theater, Sunday, December 10, when this remarkable organization will appear in two specially arranged programs. Creatore is now starting on a transcontinental tour after a continuous engagement of forty-four weeks in Milwaukee.

During Sic. Francesco Creatore's engagement there and owing to the general lack of knowledge on the part of many of the public as to the way he interprets and directs his band, it must be stated that he has spent all of his life to masterly interpretation towards the grandest works of the musical masters, and careful students of music in many large American cities have admitted after listening to and studying Sic. Creatore in his interpretations that he does his utmost to make people love music and realize its possibilities. Sic. Creatore's motto is to "produce the best instrumental music of the times offered." In a most skillful interpretative manner of musical expression, and phrasing just as he feels.

The University of Wisconsin Glee and Mandolin Clubs will arrive in this city and will render a short program at the High School before the dismissal of school. Those clubs appear at the Myers Theatre Friday night in a concert which promises to be one of the big social events of the season.

What Fear Did.

A wealthy man in New York committed suicide when his doctor told him he had appendicitis. A post mortem revealed that he did not have it. His fear of evil was worse than the evil itself. (Prov. 1:33.)

the striking performances of the grandest works of the musical masters.

He becomes so completely wrapped up in his art that he does not notice that an audience is listening to, or watching him, and directs his hand with his eyes, fingers, arms, shoulders, voice, feet and head. At the end of the more difficult numbers he shakes back his head and hair and strains himself on tiptoe to the climax that he becomes almost completely exhausted, but nevertheless he is always willing to please everyone with some popular encore.

There are hundreds and thousands of people who are spending thousands of dollars annually on their musical education and they should not neglect this inspiration and glimpse of art in its higher realm such as the "Whirlwind Musical Genius" of Signor Francesco Creatore affords.

The Japanese process of dwarfing a pine tree lasts about ten years.

Died From Neglect Of Teeth

I just read of the death of a Wisconsin man from an ulcerated tooth. Pure neglect is the usual cause of these troubles.

Folks let their teeth go and think everything is all right just because there is no pain in their teeth.

Tooth often decay for two years before penetrating deeply enough to cause pain.

The remedy is simply to go to a dentist and have the decay stopped "while they are small." I will examine you free of charge.

MANY INQUIRIES AS TO DEMONSTRATIONS

PAPER BAG COOKERY INTERESTS WOMEN READERS OF THE GAZETTE.

AFTERNOON & EVENING

Rare Opportunity Offered Housewives To Investigate for Themselves This Latest Method of Cooking.

Mrs. J. H. Marshment, the expert paper bag cookery expert, will arrive in Janesville tomorrow morning from Chicago and the first demonstration will be held at two o'clock in the afternoon in the Llewellyn Trent store building on South Main street adjacent to the Kent block.

So much interest has been displayed in these demonstrations it has been decided to hold them afternoon and evening. This afternoon lessons will start at two o'clock and will close at five. It is hoped during that time to give two complete demonstrations so that those who go early can leave to make room for others, who will see the same things later in the afternoon.

These demonstrations are absolutely free to all readers of the Gazette whether living in Janesville or not. All you have to do is to clip the coupon from the Women's Page of the Gazette, and present it at the door to gain admission. Mrs. Marshment is an expert in cookery and will have full equipment to fully explain and demonstrate the use of the paper bags, giving actual experience to all present in how the food tastes when thus prepared.

The second day demonstration, on Friday, will be given at the same hours, two in the afternoon and seven in the evening and the same hours on Saturday will be conformed with. The coupons published in the paper designate which day they are to be used so no one will have the right one when you arrive at the demonstration hall.

The horror of cooking, the washing of greasy pans and pots, is all done away with by this new scientific method and it is all been to the housewife living in cramped quarters where the smell of cooking foods is noxious. The Gazette has arranged for this series of demonstrations believing that the readers of the paper want to learn first hand this new and interesting experiment in scientific cooking.

TAG DAY DATE FOR SELLING SEALS IS PLACED AT DEC. 16

Miss Vlyman is Arranging for Street Campaign a Week From Saturday—Will Have Prize List.

Miss Helen Vlyman, local manager of the sale of anti-tuberculous Christmas seals, announced today that the date for the annual tag day for selling the stamps on the streets has been placed at a week from Saturday, or Dec. 16. She is now engaged in making plans for the day and will have the services of a score or more young ladies who will aid in the sale of stamps to the throngs of Christmas shoppers.

Local prize lists for the various persons who enter the selling campaign are being arranged at present and will be most complete. Miss Vlyman stated today that she expected to have them ready for publication and distribution tomorrow. Some of the prizes are valuable as well as novel and will be an incentive to the workers. One prize which has been suggested is a one day's absence from school to a high school class which sells the largest number of stamps.

Pupils in the public schools have already been given stamps which arrived here yesterday and the sale has begun in earnest. They are also to be found in all the stores and a large number have already been disposed of.

PLACE FIRST TUBE OF THE NEW BRIDGE

Actual Construction of Fourth Avenue Bridge Was Begun This Morning on East Side of River.

Actual construction of the new steel bridge which is to span the Rock river on Fourth avenue was begun this morning when the first of the tubular piers was placed in the river near the east bank. From this point work on the sub-structure will be carried on steadily throughout the winter with as little delay as possible.

The bridge crew men who are not helping place the piers are busy painting them with red lead and preparing the piling for use. The tubes to be placed on the south side of the bridge are of smaller diameter than those of the north side and as the dredge to be used in setting them has not yet arrived the north tubes will be sunk first.

As concrete work cannot be carried on during the winter the construction of the abutments at each end will not be started until spring. The bridge will have six spans, two more than the Racine street bridge. Each span will be sixty-four feet long, making the length of the completed bridge three hundred and eighty-four feet. Its cost will be $21,850.

ENTERS PRIVATE HOME BUT DIDN'T KNOW WHY

Man Who Claims to be Rockford Grocer Frightens Occupants of Second Ward Residence.

When the lady of a house in the 2nd ward opened her kitchen late this morning she found standing there a strange man with a prominent nose and a flushed face. He did not speak as she entered and could not explain his presence there except that he was put off a car. The police were notified and the patrol wagon was sent to bring him to the station but the man was not found until early this afternoon when Officer Fanning picked him up in a downtown business place.

He protested that he meant no harm in going into a private home. He said he came to Janesville last Sunday from Rockford, where he was in the grocery business and had a family.

The bruise over his eye was caused by a fall over a radiator in his hotel room. A complaint was made to the police Monday that a boarder had left a local hotel without paying his bill and it was thought the stranger picked up might be the man wanted, but he professed to know nothing about that occurrence. He had a check for forty-five dollars in his pocket which he could not cash because of there being no one here to identify him but his money was gone.

The police gave him a ticket to Rockford and sent him home on the two o'clock interurban car.

EXTINGUISH FIRE IN REAR END OF STORE

Fire Department Called to Union Pacific Tea Store Today to Put Out Blaze in Sugar Bags.

A silent alarm was sent in to the fire department at 11:10 o'clock this morning from the Union Pacific tea store on South Main street where a blaze, the origin of which is unknown, had started in the sacks of sugar stored in the rear of the building. The department responded promptly and extinguished the fire with chemicals, but had to move a large number of sacks before it could be reached. The damage is not known and can not be determined until the sugar bags in storage are opened. It is thought that the smoke may have spoiled some of the sugar.

SALVATION ARMY HAS NEW LOCAL LEADERS

Adjutant and Mrs. R. Martin Arrive To Take Up Work.—Appeal for Aid in Christmas Charities.

Adjutant and Mrs. R. Martin arrived here recently from Rapid City, South Dakota, where they were in charge of a Salvation Army Mission, and have taken charge of the Janesville branch at 101 N. Main Street. They succeed Captain Ellis and his wife who have been compelled to leave the work here because of the ill-health of the latter. They are now in Devils Lake, North Dakota.

In accordance with the custom followed in former years the Salvation Army will provide Christmas dinners for the poor of Janesville and Adjutant and Mrs. Martin appeal to the more fortunate in the city for contributions for this purpose. They plan to give sixty or more baskets, each containing food enough for a good dinner, including fowl and other dishes appropriate to the occasion. In addition to this a Christmas tree will be given for about two hundred poor children, each of whom will be given a present of nuts and candy. The Salvation Army also hopes to be prepared to provide all clothing and shoes where needed. Their corps of willing workers will give their time and labor cheerfully in accomplishing these purposes and hope that the public will respond promptly and generously.

Daily meetings will be resumed and the schedule as announced is as follows:

Private meetings—Monday 8 p. m. Salvation meetings—Tuesday 8 p. m. Prayer meetings—Friday 8 p. m. Holiness meetings—Friday 8 p. m. Salvation meetings—Saturday 8 p. m.

Band of Love—for young people, 2-4 p. m. Sunday and Campaign meeting—2:30 p. m. Y. P. L. meeting—6:30 p. m. Salvation meeting—8 p. m.

In Modern Politics. "I don't see anything that man has ever done that warrants his official importance," said the man who finds fault. "No," said Senator Borah.

"Some of us get on not by what we have done, but by what we are willing to promise not to do."

FORMER JANESVILLE CITIZEN IDENTIFIED LINCOLN BIRTHPLACE

Purchase For Memorial Upon Authentic Data Possessed by William Collins of Fort Worth.

But for the authentication of the Lincoln cabin and property by Warren Collins, a former Janesville citizen, now a resident of Fort Worth, Texas, the Lincoln Farm, dedicated a short time ago would not be a reality. At the time that Frank Collier of New York, was agitating and promoting the purchase of the property and preserving it, Collins was also in New York and the original cabin in which the country's greatest statesman was born was in his possession. Through Collins' efforts Collier secured the property as well as the old Lincoln farm at Hodgenville.

When the agitation started in regard to purchasing the cabin and farm the property was identified beyond question through Collins, who as one of the committee on the drawing up of the papers had it not been for the fact that he had the data on hand, and could say authentically that the property was the original cabin, the sale never could have been made, and it is probable that the movement to make a national park of the farm, would have died out. As it is, but last year the necessary $50,000 required to make a park of the farm was raised.

Now the Lincoln farm association is gathering all the Lincoln relics possible. The cabin is to be placed in Lincoln Memorial Hall, which was recently completed at a cost of $100,000. Nearly one hundred prominent business men of Illinois have been invited to contribute $1,000 apiece to raise the required $100,000 home endowment fund.

The Lincoln cabin passed through the hands of several people before Mr. Collins obtained possession of it. Dr. D. Bennett of New York purchased the property some time after the death of Lincoln and used it for exhibition purposes. He made an energetic but unsuccessful attempt to induce Congress to pass a bill for the purchase of the cabin. Later he sold the property to David Croay of New York and from him the cabin passed into the possession of Mr. Collins.

BROTHER DUTTON ON TWENTY-SIXTH YEAR

Former Janesville Man Has Spent Quarter Century Ministering to Lepers in Kalaawa Settlement.

Clippings from the Pacific Commercial Advertiser of Honolulu, bearing the date of October the thirtieth, convey the information that Joseph Dutton, a former resident of Janesville, has just finished a quarter century of service ministering to the Kalaawa leper colony on Molokai Island. In the last mail which reached Honolulu from that remote and isolated settlement, was a souvenir "silver jubilee" card addressed to a Mr. John H. Miller, brief and simple, but full of significance, was the line written across the corner of the card, "Started on another twenty-five." Not once in the twenty-five years that ended July 29, this year has brother Dutton left the post in Molokai where he took up his work in 1886. He has seldom been out of the village of Kalaawa, where he has charge of the Baldwin home for boys.

Brother Dutton writes hopefully from his island retreat of the years that are still before him. He is gray-haired and unobscured, but spiritually just as strong for the quarter century's work just beginning as he was for that quarter century of constant work and self-denial that is past. In his enthusiasm and ardor for the great cause of humanity which he has shifted so burdensomely upon his shoulders, he feels that his new cycle of twenty-five years will be at least well begun, if not actually finished before account is taken of his life's work.

In its editorial columns the Commercial Advertiser pays him a glowing tribute.

"Brother Dutton preaches a lesson to the world on selflessness and devotion to others which it would be hard to match, backed as they are by a quarter century of effort for those who can only repay him with their thanks."

"During the Civil War Brother Dutton served with the Union army and after the war was a member of the corps which visited the battlefields and temporary graveyards to identify the dead and send the remains to the North for burial. He has a little grand Army Post of his own at Kalaawa, of which he is post commander, adjutant, chaplain and quartermaster all in one."

It is of grand Army matters that he writes enthusiastically to Mr. Edinger in his recent letter. He spends of a rare war incident of the days of 1861, which he intends to give to the G. A. R. officials.

"Brother Dutton," was interested he says, in reading recently of General Edward B. Salomon, of San Francisco, who, he believes, is the son of former Governor Edward Salomon of Wisconsin. It was Governor Salomon who signed Brother Dutton's first commission in the Volunteers."

CROSS, SICK, FEVERISH CHILDREN NEED GENTLE, THOROUGH CASCARETS

Most of the ills of childhood are caused by a sour, disordered stomach, sluggish liver and constipated bowels. They catch cold easily, become cross, listless, irritable, feverish, restless, tongue coated, don't eat or sleep well and need a gentle, though thorough physic—but don't try to force a nauseating dose of oil into the little one's already sick stomach—it is cruel, needless, and old-fashioned.

Any child will gladly take Cascarets which act gently—never gripe or produce the slightest uneasiness—through cleanses the little one's system, sweetens the stomach and puts the liver and bowels in a pure, healthy condition.

Full directions for children and grown-ups in each package.

Mothers can rest easy after giving this gentle, thorough laxative which costs only 10c per box.

ORFORDVILLE

SIDEWALK SKETCHES

By Howard L. Rann.

The Discovery of Steam.

Robert Fulton, who discovered the principle of steam at the tender age of twelve years, was born in Pennsylvania in 1765.

Scotch-Irish stock with long Havana "tiller." At the age of seventeen he took to "china painting" and his father gave him up, but he rallied from this attack and became one of the first advocates of the ship industry.

While waiting for dinner one day, Robert carelessly inserted an index finger into the spout of a tea kettle, thereby contracting a world-wide idea and a large water blister. Going to New York he built the ship Clermont, which attained a speed of five miles per hour going south and two miles per hour going north.

Robert was the subject of much controversy at this period. The natives and utter coarse remarks calculated to rub his drooping spirits to a temperature of about 22 below zero, and then go back to the corner grocery and pass a motion to the effect that Robert was the original foolhead.

When the Clermont became a shining success, his old neighbors and friends crowded in to buy stock, providing they could get in on the ground floor with a modest discount for cash. It was at this time that Robert invented the steam tug, which has put quite a crimp in his popularity.

His later years were embittered by second mortgages on his violin assets, which consisted of one pair of paddle wheels and a hoarse steam chest.

He had to go to law so often to protect his patents that he became quite expert and got so he could tell the appellate from the appellate. He died in 1815, owing a large grocery bill, but is better appreciated now.

The Impeccable Sardine.

They can be given to children without fear of their choking. It can easily be recognized that the bones are taken away. A large number of consumers evidently judge thus, as sardines so prepared have a first class reputation. They are to be found on all tables where the lady of the house wishes to show she lives in style.

Truly Conservative.

Talleyrand's conservatism was summed up by a witty compatriot, Paul de Courrier, who declared that if Talleyrand had been present at the creation, he would have exclaimed: "Good gracious! Chaos will be destroyed!"

QUIT CALOMEL

Thousands Are Turning from This Dangerous Drug.

A Safe Vegetable Substitute Is Olive Tablets for the Liver.

Dr. F. M. Edwards, a prominent physician of Portsmouth, Ohio, has discovered a new laxative and liver tonic in a combination of vegetable materials, mixed with olive oil, which is in effect almost exactly like the old and untrustworthy calomel, except that there are none of the bad after effects of calomel.

Dr. Edwards has long been a foe of calomel, though he recognized its value along with its dangers.

His distrust of the uncertain drug eventually started him years ago towards experiments with the view of discovering a substitute, and he is today in possession of the long-sought for combination, which is in the shape of a little sugar-coated, olive oil colored tablet.

"The results of fifteen years' experience and practice are embodied in these marvelous little tablets."

They are called Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, and their effect on the liver has been the means of relief to many of Dr. Edwards' regular patients as well as to thousands of others who have suffered and were afraid of calomel.

They are gentle in their action, yet always effective. They bring about that exuberance of spirit, that natural buoyancy which should be enjoyed by everyone, by toning up the liver and clearing the system of harmful impurities.

"Every little Olive Tablet has a movement all its own."

All druggists sell them in neat vest pocket sizes at 10c and 25c.

SCALE DECREASES SATURDAY EVENING

A Case of "Now or Never" for the Candidate
Who Wants That Overland Car

DECEMBER 23, 1911, CLOSING DAY

Enthusiasm Nearing White Heat Point—
Locate Every Subscription in Sight.

Only four days remain in which candidates can take advantage of the present scale of votes. It is decreased Saturday evening, Dec. 9, one-tenth. Those sending subscriptions by mail will have them in on time if the letter bears a post mark December 9.

During the past day or two, many have taken advantage of the present scale and offer and a large percentage of them are coming from persons who are just becoming active. Numerous places heretofore not represented by candidates, have been placed on the campaign map during the past week.

But the campaign is still young. Not a single prize has been won yet, and no candidate has a lead that cannot be overcome in few days' time. It is possible to enter today and be in touching distance of the first grand prize before Saturday night.

But time is always valuable, and it will not be the part of wisdom to delay. Those who fully realize the value of time and make every minute count are the ones who will be awarded prizes in the end. System, too, should be put into the work. So that every day, as well as time, may be saved, every candidate should make out a list of the persons from whom they think they can secure subscriptions, check off a name only after the person has been seen, and discard the list after every name on it has been checked off.

When anyone promises a subscription "later on," the subscription should be written up in the receipt books furnished to candidates, so it will not be forgotten, and realized on later. When a subscription is paid it should be sent in as soon as possible. When a person subscribes for a paper he does not wish to wait more than a day or two before receiving it, and an old subscriber wishes to feel that proper credit has been given for his payment. Much good work can be done in the next four days. The more aggressive candidates will avail themselves of the advantage they are offered in a field that has been little worked, with the idea uppermost that every day will find the campaign a little older.

FREE EXPLANATION AND DEMONSTRATION COOKING IN PAPER BAGS

Gazette's Big Event For the Women, Under Direction of Mrs. Marshment, Expert
Demonstrator—An All-Absorbing
Subject for Housewives

This Week, Thursday, Friday and Saturday
At New Store, L. R. Treat's, Near Library, Next to Kent Flats, on South Main Street.

(1) Food prepared for cooking is placed in bag.

(2) Fold end over twice and fasten with several pins or paper clips.

(3) Place bag on grid in oven.

(4) To remove, slip plate under bag.

(5) To remove food, rip open bag.

The great interest developing in paper bag cooking makes this free explanation and demonstration of particular moment and the Gazette is pleased to be able to furnish for the women an opportunity to learn of the new idea by actual demonstration under the direction of an expert in culinary matters.

Mrs. M. J. Marshment of Chicago, will conduct the demonstration and will show the process of paper bag cooking by preparing a meal from start to finish; she will explain thoroughly the advantages, saving, etc., of the new method which has created so much interest the country over and which the noted English Chef, Nicholas Soyer, originated.

Paper Bag Cooking says goodbye to greasy pans and kettles. No washing or cleaning up afterward. Things are cooked better and quicker. No odors; juices retained, thus adding to flavor. Economical, no shrinkage of meats and less time required in cooking. Thoroughly hygienic, saves labor, needs no watching, cooks anything but soup. Come and learn how and why at L. R. Treat's Building, next to Library. The New Gas Light Co.'s gas range will be used in the demonstration, showing the many uses it can be put to.

Clip admission coupon on another page. Only those presenting these coupons will be admitted free. Coupon will appear each day, good for next day's demonstration.

An Unparalleled Sale of Velour and Plush Coats Began Today

We secured the entire line a large manufacturer had on hand of Velour and Plush Coats yesterday at a price that was astonishingly low. We were compelled to take the entire line however if we were to secure a price, and we have decided to give the patrons of this store some VALUES that are unparalleled in the history of Janesville retailing.

The styles are just the ones that refined dressers are seeking. They have the straight line effect, the large collars, the handsome trimmings or silk braid and of same materials side button effects with one frog, and fancy side trimmings. They have the long reverse that extend to the waist and below, and the fabrics are simply beautiful. Fine sealette plushes and superfine velours, will be offered at prices that you would willingly pay for very ordinary garments, if this opportunity had not been presented. There is no woman in Janesville who does not want a velour or fine plush coat, and every woman can well afford one at these extraordinary low prices.

Catch any fish? "Kuykendall (staring at him)—I went up north this time, you meanly clump, to get a wife."

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Gazette, Dec. 6, 1871.—The funeral of H. H. Moon took place this afternoon from the Baptist church. John Kimball will sell at auction, at the Corn Exchange, tomorrow, at 1:00 o'clock, twenty or thirty barrels of assorted varieties of apples. Considerable corn is yet unharvested in this county and farmers are waiting for milder weather before finishing up their fall work. There is a blizzard in today's weather which would do credit to a heathen Chinese. The thermometer hangs pensively on the walls and lifts their mercurial indicators so high on the figured scale that we are almost inclined to believe that there is some mistake about the brief winter of the past few days. At sunrise this morning the mercury soared sixteen above zero, and this afternoon it has reached thirty-five, a gain of some thirty degrees, in favor of warm weather within twenty-four hours.

The Polynesian have expelled all the whites. A war steamer has been sent there. London, Dec. 4.—The Prince of Wales is out of danger and the fever is declining. New Lisbon offers $23,000 to have the Normal School located there. Two new engines for the West Wisconsin Railroad have been received and five more are on the way. In a short time four or five more trains will be put on this road. An Appleton meat market man presented a turkey to each of his regular patrons on Thanksgiving day. The Prairie du Chien Press says, "The temporary railroad bridge across the Mississippi at this city is once more completed and trains running regularly again. The travel was hardly suspended at all as the company had the bridge completed very soon after the ferries made their last trip."

I see the aviators sail o'er head; like birds they die the gloom. And when they to the earth descend I throw them posies without end, and I embrace them till they're hurt, and whoop and yell and tear my shirt, but when my fervor dies away, I lean against myself and say: "The man who-moves a weedy piece is doing more to help the race; the worker makes the planet smile—I'll go and whoop and wrestle, like and strong, engage in struggles fierce and long; I marvel at their mighty thews, and shrink with cockle-headedness when one climbs on another's frame and breaks his neck and sets the game. But when the wrestling match is over, and I go to bed, I mutter to myself at length: "It was a fearful waste of strength! The slim, sleek athletes throw away would be a hundred tons of hay! Tomorrow I shall go and yell for some one who has dug a well! The men who work with picks or saws are most deserving of applause!"

Better to Proceed Slowly.

Creating a Character.

Sinking one's identity in character parts on the stage is but an insignificant branch of acting. The displaying of a personality beneath the makeup, the incarnation of a written character in flesh and blood, by a sheer act of genius on the part of the actor in filling it part with his own personality, tempered to the limitations of his role—the creation, in short, of a living, visible and intelligible being, is the grand goal of the actor's art. How, well Richard Mansfield knew that art! In his performances, you saw an impenetrable makeup, but though Mansfield was hidden, behind the disguise were the brains of the greatest dramatic genius of our generation, fashioning steadily and superbly a character as he conceived it out of the materials placed at his command by the playwright.

The Latest Precious Stone.

A new gem mineral—benitoite—has been added to the list of known precious stones. This is a titanite-like of barium, having a blue color and a high refractive index. It is found in San Benito county, California.

Merlot Hair Tonic keeps the scalp in a healthy condition, prevents the hair from falling out, restores it to its natural color and used regularly keeps the hair soft and fluffy. Reliable Drug Co.

Not a Real Genius.
A Connecticut man has an alarm clock which arouses his hens and feeds them at the proper time. "Time wanted! A real genius would have spent his time inventing an alarm clock that would lay eggs and cuckoo at the completion of the feat."

The KINGDOM of SLENDER SWORDS

by HALLIE ERMINIE RIVES

Copyright, 1910, by the Bobbs-Merrill Company

"St. John," she said softly, "the disciple whom Jesus loved." She drew from the bosom of her dress the locket she always wore and opened it. "The face was painted from this—the only picture I have of my father."

His hand twitched as he took it. He looked at it long and earnestly—at the name carved on its lid: "Barbara—Barbara Fairfax," he said. She thought his lips shook under the gray mustache.

"You are a Buddhist, are you not?" she asked. "And Buddhists believe the spirits of the dead are always about us. Do you think—perhaps—the face of the chapel?"

He put her locket into her hands hastily. "God!" he said, as if to himself. "He will see it through a hundred existences!"

Her eyes were moist and shining. "I am glad you think that," she said. "In the chapel the bishop's gaze kindled as it went out over the kneeling people."

"We bow down thee that in this place now set apart to thy service thy holy name may be worshipped in truth and purity through all generations."

The voice rang vibrant and clear in the summer hush. It crossed the still lanes and entered a window where, in a temple left, a man sat still and gray and quiet, his hands clinched in his knees as he listened.

"We humbly dedicate it to thee in the memory of one for the saving of whose soul thou wert lifted upon the cross."

The man in the left threw himself on his face with a terrible cry.

"My child!" he cried in a breaking voice. "My little, little child, whom they have robbed me of—whom I have never known in all these weary years! You have grown away from me—I shall never have you now! Never—never!"

Behind him the image of Kwan-on, the All-Pitying, tossed the sunlight about the room in golden lettered flames, and beneath his closed and burning lids there seemed to blind and weave to form, blossomed letters which that filled to bring its customary glow.

Today Daunt could not exorcise with the mass of detail the leering lumps that plagued him. They peered at him over the edge of the code books and whispered from the margins of decorous dispatches, chuckling satirically.

"Barbara!" they sneered. "More acquaintances often name steam yachts for girls, don't they? Arrived the same day as her ship, eh? Rather singular coincidence! What a flush she had when Voynich spoke of Phil's brother last night at the tea house, Angely! Of course she was! What engaged girl likes to have the fact paraded, especially when she's practicing on another man? And how about the telegram? How long have you known her, by the way? Two days? Really, now?"

The weekly governmental patch had closed at noon, and pouch days were half holidays, but Daunt did not go to the embassy. An official letter had arrived from Washington which must be delivered in Kanakura. Daunt seized this excuse, plunged ferociously into twos and an hour afterward found himself in a railway carriage thudding gloomily toward the lower bay. In his heart he knew that he was trying to run away—from something that nevertheless traveled with him.

At Kanakura an immediate answer to the letter he brought was not forthcoming, and to kill the time he strolled far down the curved beach.

Daunt knew a tea house on the very lip of the cliff, the Kinkiro—"Inn of the Golden Turtle"—and he bent his steps lazily in its direction. At the hedge he paused an instant. Some one somewhere was humming, low voiced, an air that he had once loved. He pushed open the gate and went on into the tumultuous radiance. Then he stopped short.

Barbara was seated above him in the fork of a low camellia tree, one arm laid out along a branch, her green gown blending with a bamboo thicket behind her and her vivid face framed in the blossoms. She sat, chin in hand, looking dreamily out across the bay, and the humming song had a rhythm that seemed to fit her thought—slow and infinitely tender.

"You!" he cried.

She turned with a startled movement that dissolved into low, delicious laughter.

"Faintly caught," she answered. "I don't often revert for enough to climb trees, but I thought no one but Haru and I was here. Will you come and help me down, Honorable Firman?"

"Wait," he said. "What was the song you were humming?"

She looked at him with a quick intake of breath, then for answer began to sing, in a voice that presently became softer more than a whisper: "Forgotten you? Well, if forgetting me hearing all the day. Your voice through all the strange babble of voices grave, now say—Till the one when I see you again, if this be forgetting, you're right, dear! And I have forgotten you then!"

Daunt's hand fell to his side. A young girl's face nestled in creamy pink blossoms—a sweet, shy, flushed face under a mass of curling gold bronze hair. "I remember now!" he said in a low voice. "I sang it to you that day!"

"I am flattered!" she exclaimed. "The day before yesterday you had forgotten that you ever saw poor little me! It was Mrs. Claybourne, of course, that you sang to! Yet you were my idol for a long month and a day!"

"It was to you," he said unsteadily. "I didn't know your name. But I never forgot the song. I remembered it that night in the garden, when I first heard you playing!"

They walked together around the curving road, leaving Haru with the tea basket. "Patsy would have come," Barbara had said, "but she is in the clutches of her dressmaker." And Daunt had answered, "I have a distract regard for that Chinaman!"

His black mood had vanished, and the leering lumps had flown. In the brightness of her physical presence how baseless and foolish seemed his sudden lunging! What man who owned a steam yacht, knowing her, would not wish to name it the Barbara? Walking beside her, so near that he could feel the touch of her light skirt against his ankles, it seemed impossible that he should ever again be other than light hearted. She was no acquaintance of hours, after all. He had known her for seven years. He was in wild spirits.

They stopped at a tea house open on all sides and, sitting cross legged on its tatami, drank tea from earthenware pots that held only a small cupful. They went, laughing like two children, down the zigzagging steps. He pointed to a gloomy source which ran into the mountain at a little distance.

"O maiden, journeying to holy Ben-ten," he said, "behold her shrine!"

"How delicious!"

"People find love so sometimes," she slowly shook her head. "Not all of them," she said softly. "I am old fashioned enough not to believe that."

"We will ask Ben-ten about it," he said.

"Oh, but not 'we'!" she cried. "I must go alone. Don't you know the legend? People quarrel if they go together."

"I can't imagine quarrelling with you. I'd rather quarrel with myself."

"That would be difficult, wouldn't it?"

"Not in some of my moods. Ask my head boy. Today, for instance."

"Well?" he had asked.

"I was meditating self destruction when I met you."

"By what interesting method, I wonder?"

"I was about to search for a volcano to jump into."

"I thought that the nearest active crater is a hundred miles away."

"So it is, but I'm an absentminded beggar."

She laughed. "May I ask what inspired today's suicidal mood?"

"It was a telegram."

"Oh!" she colored faintly. "I—I hope it held no bad news."

He looked into her eyes. "I hope not," he said. "Something else was on his tongue when 'Look!' she exclaimed. 'How strange the sea looks off there!'"

From where they stood steps were roughly hewn into the rock, winding across the face of the cliff. Besides these stone pillars were sockets, carrying an iron chain that hung in rusted festoons. Along this precarious pathway from the cavern an old man was heavily coming, followed by a boy with a sagging bundle tied in a white cloth. "That parcel, no doubt," said Daunt, "contains the day's offerings. Wait! You're not going?" for she had started down the steps.

She had turned to answer when with the suddenness of an explosion a burst of wind fell on them like a flapping weight, scattering them with drops that struck the rock as if hurled from a slingful of melted metal.

Daunt had sprung to her side and was shouting something. But the words were indistinguishable. She shook her head and went on stubbornly, clinging to the chain, a whirl of blown garments. She felt him grasp her arm.

"Go back!" she shrieked. "It's—bad—luck!"

As he released her there came a second menacing lull, and in it she sprang down the steps and ran swiftly out along the pathway. He was after her in an instant, overtaking her on a frail board trestle that spanned a pool where the cliff was perpendicular. Here the wind, shaggy with spume, hurled them together. Daunt threw an arm about her, clinging with the other hand to the wooden railing. Her hair was a reddish swirl across his shoulder, and her breath, panting against his throat, ridged his skin with a creeping delight.

He bent and shouted into her ear. All she caught was, "Must—cave—next lull!"

She nodded her head, and her lips smiled at him through the confused obscenity. A thrill swept her like silver rain. Pulse on pulse, an emotion like fire and snow in one thrilled and chilled her. She closed her eyes with a wild longing that the wind might last forever, that that moment, like the ecstasy of an opium dream, might draw itself out to infinite length. Slowly she felt the breath of the tempest ebb about them, then suddenly felt herself lifted from her feet, and her eyes opened into Daunt's. Her cheek lay against his breast, as it had done in that short moment in the embassy garden, she could feel his heart bound under the rough tweed.

CHAPTER XVII.

THE ISLAND OF ENCHANTMENT.

ONCE more the wind caught them, but he staggered on through it and into the high rock entrance of the cave.

Inside its dripping rim the sudden cessation of the wind seemed almost uncanny, and the boom of the surf was a dull thunderous roar. He set her on her feet on the damp rock and laughed wildly.

"Do you realize," she said, "that we have transgressed the most sacred tenet of Ben-ten by coming here together? We are doomed to misunderstanding."

"Now that I recollect, that applies only to lovers," he answered. "Then 'we'—"

"Are quite safe," she quickly flushed for him. "Come, I want to see the shrine. We must find a candle."

He peered into the gloomy depths. "I think I see some burning," he said. "We will explore."

A little way inside they came to a small well, with a dipper and a rack of thin blue and white towels to cleanse the hands of worshippers. On a square pedestal stood a stone Buddha, curiously incrustured by drippings from the roof. Near it was a wooden booth, its front hung with pendulous twisted rice straw and strips of white paper rinsed in gingon and notches. It held a number of tiny wooden tortoise shells with lighted candles, above each of which was nailed a paper prayer. A few copper coins lay scattered beneath them. Daunt thrust two of the candles into wooden holders, and they slowly followed the narrowing fissure, guttered by the feet of centuries, between square posts bearing carved texts and small images coated with the sperry droppings from immemorial candles.

She held up her winking light toward his face. "What a desperate absorption!" she said laughingly. "You haven't said a thing for five minutes."

"I'm thinking we had better explain at once to Ben-ten that we're not lovers. Otherwise we may get the penalty. Perhaps we'd better just tell her it was an accident and let it go at that. What do you think?"

"That might be the simplest."

"All right, then. I'll say 'Ben-ten, dear, she wanted to come alone; she really did. We didn't intend it at all. So be a nice, gracious goddess and don't make her quarrel with me!'"

"What do you suppose she will answer?"

"She will say, 'Young man, in the same circumstances I should have done exactly the same myself.'"

The passage had grown so low that they had to bend their heads, then all at once it widened into a concave chamber. The canopied of the wind rumbled fainter and fainter. He took her hand and drew her forward. "There is Ben-ten," he said.

The Goddess of Love sat in a barrel cleft of the rock, unshorn in a dull, gold silence. Beads of moisture glistened her robe, glimmering like brilliant through the mossy darkness. "Poor dolly!" said Barbara. "To have to live for ever in a sea cavern! It's a charming idea, isn't it?"

CHAPTER XVI.

DAUNT LISTENS TO A SONG.

THE day had dawned sultry, with a promise of summer humidity, and Daunt was not surprised to find the harmonies for performing temperate antics. "Confound it!" he muttered irritably as he dressed. "It was a month later one would think there was a typhoon waiting around somewhere in the China sea."

That morning had seen his first trial of his new fan propeller, and the glider's action had surpassed his wildest expectations. The flight, of which Barbara had caught a glimpse from Thorne's garden, had been a longer one than usual—quite twelve miles against a sluggish upper current—but even
